

The ACK path is the only channel through which the sender learns what the receiver holds.